

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method and apparatus for value added content delivery receives from a client system a request for content which targets a network server. In response to the request, additional content associated with the network server is provided to the client system in 5 addition to the requested content.

002784.P001